

discover southwest

➡ opportunitites link peers

Punt, Pass, and Kick for Tuition once again succeeded in uniting a substantial crowd at the John I. Hurst stadium to witness local high school contestants compete for a chance at a free semester of tuition at Southwest. The stakes for joining Southwest were high, and the anticipation of the students was even higher as they hyped themselves up for the big kick. The participants gave it their all, but in the end, each contestant came up short. In return for their positivity and motivation, Southwest granted them each a $250 scholarship. Those who did not participate in the battle for free tuition were awarded a concession stand voucher and free access to the football game.

It was an incredible night for students and fans alike as they witnessed an intense game and experienced firsthand the united spirit of Southwest. Discover Southwest provided a time of opportunity and fond memories for each person attending, and the winning students went home feeling not only content but also connected to the campus.

by Madison VanNess

above: Molly Hennington cheers from the sidelines; opposite page: Abbie Jones twirls a flag during the routine; right: Kaylee Brown performs during the halftime show.

